Looks at post-war American drama by women, bridging the gap between theatrical theory and feminist theory

An ordered chaos of ropes

The sculpture below consists of skeins of rubber-dipped string and rope, suspended by wires from the ceiling. It is an unfinished work by Eva Hesse (right), who favors malleable materials like cheesecloth and rubber. The knots are fixed, but the rest of the piece is totally flexible and potentially rearrangeable. "This piece is very un-ordered," says Miss Hesse. "Maybe I'll make it more structured, maybe I'll leave it changeable. When it's completed, its order could be shaft, which is an order in itself. Chaos can be as structured as non-chaos. That we know from Jackson Pollock."
